

Paul Uchima
Vice President, Chief Administrative Officer

Paul Uchima is the Chief Administrative Officer at Pelatron, and oversees much of the firm's daily operations. He is responsible for leading the Project Management Office, Human Resources and Risk Management divisions.

As CAO, Mr. Uchima develops the company's operational procedures, and oversees new training protocols for new hires and project managers. He establishes project planning methods, establishes goals, objectives, and performance measures and identifies critical success factors. He facilitates cross-functional teams and manages multiple projects in diverse locations. He ensures compliance of the company's IT protocol policies as required by the Department of Defense and other federal agencies.

Mr. Uchima has been with Pelatron for nine years, and brings over 30 years of progressive experience in business strategy and business development, program/project management, business operations, compliance, schedule, cost control, and customer relationship management; and over 10 years direct experience managing personnel and IT projects.

Before joining Pelatron in 2007, Mr. Uchima held various executive and management positions at two of the largest insurance/financial firms in Hawaii, and an IT systems/process management firm.

Mr. Uchima earned his Masters of Business Administration and Bachelors of Education at the University of Phoenix and University of Hawaii. He holds certifications as a Project Management Professional (PMP); University of Chicago Business School Chicago, Illinois - Marketing & Sales Management Program; University of Hawaii Honolulu, Hawaii - Executive Management Program; and American College Bryn Mawr, PA - Chartered Financial Consultant Professional Designation.
